Sentinel Terms of Service

Oct 23, 2026 · @Ace

Effective date: October 23, 2026

These Terms of Service (the "Terms") form a binding agreement between you and Cole Slay, a sole proprietor with a business address at 13565 Howling Coyote Ave, Las Vegas, Nevada ("Sentinel", "we", "us" or "our"). They govern your access to and use of Sentinel, a web application that runs passive security checks against public websites and web applications and explains the results in plain language (the "Service").

By creating an account, submitting a URL, or otherwise using the Service, you accept these Terms. If you do not accept them, do not use the Service.

1. What Sentinel is, and what it is not

Sentinel runs a limited, passive security check against a public web address you give it, then returns a report that grades what it found and explains each finding in plain language. It is built for people who shipped an application without a security background.

Sentinel is not a penetration test, a security audit, a compliance assessment, or a substitute for review by a qualified security professional. It checks a small number of things that are visible from outside a running site.

A clean report means Sentinel did not find the specific problems it knows how to look for. It does not mean your application is secure. It is not a certification, a warranty, or a professional opinion, and it must not be presented to anyone else as any of those things.

You remain solely responsible for the security of your application, your data, and your users.

2. Eligibility and your account

You must be at least 18 years old and able to form a binding contract to use the Service. If you use the Service for a company or other organization, you confirm that you have authority to bind it to these Terms, and "you" means both you and that organization.

You are responsible for everything done under your account, including every scan run with your credentials. Keep your sign-in details confidential, and tell us at coleslaysolutions@gmail.com promptly if you believe your account has been used without your permission.

The Service is an early-stage product. Account features, including sign-in, saved reports, and usage limits, are still under development, and they may change, be interrupted, or be reset.

3. Your authorization to scan

This is the most important obligation in these Terms. You may submit a web address to Sentinel only if at least one of the following is true:

- You own the website or application at that address.
- You operate it and are authorized to have it security tested.
- You hold express written permission from its owner to have it security tested.

Scanning a system you neither own nor are authorized to test may be unlawful. In the United States that can include the Computer Fraud and Abuse Act (18 U.S.C. § 1030) and state computer crime laws, including Nevada's in NRS Chapter 205. Other countries have their own equivalents. Many hosting providers and website terms also prohibit unauthorized scanning whether or not a criminal law applies.

Deciding whether you hold that authorization is your responsibility, not ours. We do not verify ownership before running a scan, and the fact that a scan ran is not our confirmation that you were permitted to run it.

Scans are made from our cloud infrastructure, and Sentinel identifies itself in its requests with a contact address so that site operators can reach us. If a site operator contacts us about a scan you submitted, we may disclose the information we hold about that scan as far as is needed to respond and as described in the Privacy Policy.

By submitting a web address, you represent and warrant that you hold the authorization described in this section.

4. Acceptable use

You agree not to:

- Submit a web address you are not authorized to scan.
- Use the Service to find weaknesses you intend to exploit, to disclose without permission, or to pressure a site's owner.

- Try to make Sentinel reach a private, internal, loopback, or cloud-metadata address, or any system it could not otherwise reach.
- Work around rate limits, usage limits, caching, or the restrictions in Section 5, including by rotating accounts, addresses, or proxies.
- Scan at a volume or frequency intended to burden our infrastructure or a target site.
- Resell or sublicense the Service, or present it or its reports as your own product or your own professional assessment.
- Copy, scrape, reverse engineer, or build derivative works from the Service, except where applicable law permits this regardless of contract.
- Upload or transmit malware, or interfere with the integrity or performance of the Service.
- Use the Service in breach of any applicable law, export control, or sanctions regime.

We may investigate suspected breaches and take whatever action we consider appropriate, including removing content, limiting or suspending access, and reporting conduct to law enforcement.

5. What a scan covers, and its limits

A scan is a short, polite visit to the public surface of the address you submit. In its current form, one scan:

- requests the site's robots.txt file, and honors a directive that disallows our scanner;
- requests the origin's home page, discarding any path or query string you typed;
- requests a small number of the site's own same-origin scripts that the page already loads.

Every scan is capped: a fixed number of requests, limits on how much data is read, a per-request and an overall timeout, a limited number of redirects, and a minimum spacing between requests to one host. Results are cached briefly, so a repeat request for the same site may return the previous report instead of a fresh visit, and a site that errors or looks unhealthy is not retried straight away.

Sentinel does not assess authentication, authorization and access controls, or database rules, and reports mark those as not assessed. Server-side logic, business logic flaws, infrastructure configuration, and anything behind a login are outside its scope.

These limits exist to protect the sites being scanned. We may change them at any time, and we may refuse or stop a scan for any reason, including a site that blocks us, a site that appears to be under strain, and a site that does not appear to belong to you.

6. AI-generated explanations

Findings are produced by deterministic code. A large language model, currently Google's Gemini, is used only to explain findings in plain language, to answer your questions about a report, and to draft suggested fixes. It does not decide what counts as a finding.

Model output can be wrong, incomplete, or out of date, and it can confidently describe a fix that does not apply to your application. Treat every explanation and every suggested fix as a starting point to verify, not as an instruction to apply unchecked. Review any suggested change before you run it against your code, your configuration, or your live environment. We are not responsible for the consequences of applying a suggestion.

Your companion messages and the relevant parts of your report are sent to our model provider for processing. The Privacy Policy sets out exactly what is sent.

7. Plans, pricing and payment

Sentinel offers a free tier and paid plans. The price, the included limits and the billing period of each plan are shown at the point of purchase, and those details form part of these Terms once you subscribe.

Billing and renewal. Paid plans are billed in advance for each period, monthly or annual as you choose at checkout. We accept card and wallet payments through Stripe, payments through PayPal, and Apple Pay. For those methods you authorize us to charge your payment method on a recurring basis until you cancel: your subscription renews automatically at the end of each period, and we charge the then-current price for your plan. Those payments are handled by our payment providers, and we do not receive or store your full card number.

Manual payment methods. We also accept Zelle, Cash App, Chime and Venmo. These services do not support recurring billing, so a subscription paid through them does not renew automatically. We will email you before your period ends, and your paid features continue only if your payment for the next period reaches us before that period begins. If it does not, your account returns to the free tier at the end of the period you paid for. Payments sent through these services may not carry the purchase protection or dispute rights that a card payment carries, so use them only if you are comfortable with that. Send payment only to the account or handle shown at checkout, and treat any other request for payment as fraudulent.

Cancellation. You can cancel at any time in your account settings, or by emailing coleslaysolutions@gmail.com. Cancelling stops the next renewal. Your paid features continue until the end of the period you have already paid for, and your account then moves to the free tier. There is no cancellation fee and no notice period.

No refunds. Payments are non-refundable. When you cancel, we do not refund or credit the unused remainder of the period you have paid for, and we do not refund a period you did not use, unused scans, or unused companion messages. This does not apply where a refund is required by law, and it does not limit any mandatory statutory right you have as a consumer, including any statutory cancellation or withdrawal right. If you believe you were charged in error or charged twice, email coleslaysolutions@gmail.com and we will look into it and put right a genuine error.

Failed payments. If a charge fails we may retry it, and we may suspend your paid features until a payment succeeds. We may end a subscription that stays unpaid.

Price changes. We may change the price of a plan. A change takes effect at your next renewal, and we will give you at least 30 days' notice by email first. If you do not accept a new price, cancel before that renewal.

Taxes. Prices exclude sales, use, VAT, GST and similar taxes unless stated otherwise at checkout. Those taxes are your responsibility, other than taxes on our income.

Lifetime plans. Where we offer a lifetime plan, "lifetime" means the operating life of the Service rather than your own lifetime. It is subject to the usage limits published for that plan and to fair use, it does not give you unlimited scans or unlimited companion messages, and it does not survive discontinuation of the Service. We may adjust the AI usage included in a lifetime plan if our model costs change materially, with notice to you. Lifetime plans are non-refundable and non-transferable.

Free tier. Free access is subject to usage limits, and we may change, reduce or withdraw it at any time.

8. Intellectual property and your content

We own or license the Service, including its software, design, text, the companion character, and the Sentinel name. These Terms grant you a limited, revocable, non-exclusive, non-transferable right to use the Service for its intended purpose. No other rights are granted.

Your content. You keep ownership of the addresses you submit and anything you type into the Service. You grant us a non-exclusive, worldwide, royalty-free license to host, store, process and transmit that content, and to pass it to our service providers, only so far as is needed to operate the Service, keep it secure, comply with law, and improve the checks it runs. The license ends when the content is deleted, except for copies held in backups or retained because the law requires it.

Your reports. You may use a report for your own purposes, including sharing it inside your organization and with your own advisors. You may not present it as an independent audit or a certification, and you may not remove any statement in it about the limits of the scan.

Feedback. If you send us ideas or suggestions, you grant us an unrestricted right to use them with no payment or attribution. Please do not send us anything you consider confidential.

9. Third-party services

The Service runs on third-party infrastructure and uses third-party APIs, currently including Google Cloud, Google Firebase, and the Google Gemini API. Their availability, performance, pricing and changes are outside our control, and an outage or change at a provider can interrupt or degrade the Service.

The Service also visits the websites you submit. We do not control those sites, we do not endorse them, and we are not responsible for their content or their behavior.

10. Disclaimers

THE SERVICE AND ALL REPORTS ARE PROVIDED "AS IS" AND "AS AVAILABLE", WITHOUT WARRANTIES OF ANY KIND, EXPRESS OR IMPLIED. TO THE FULLEST EXTENT PERMITTED BY LAW, WE DISCLAIM ALL IMPLIED WARRANTIES, INCLUDING MERCHANTABILITY, FITNESS FOR A PARTICULAR PURPOSE, TITLE, AND NON-INFRINGEMENT.

We specifically do not warrant that:

- a scan will find every security problem in your application, or any particular problem;
- a finding is accurate, complete, or applicable to your circumstances;
- an explanation or suggested fix produced by a language model is correct or safe to apply;

- the absence of findings means your application is secure;
- the Service will be uninterrupted, timely, error-free, or available at any given moment.

Security is not a state you reach once. New weaknesses appear in software and in dependencies continuously, and a report describes one moment in time.

Some jurisdictions do not allow the exclusion of certain warranties, so parts of this section may not apply to you. Nothing in these Terms excludes liability that cannot lawfully be excluded, including rights you may have under applicable consumer protection law.

11. Limitation of liability

TO THE FULLEST EXTENT PERMITTED BY LAW, WE WILL NOT BE LIABLE FOR ANY INDIRECT, INCIDENTAL, SPECIAL, CONSEQUENTIAL, EXEMPLARY OR PUNITIVE DAMAGES, OR FOR ANY LOSS OF PROFITS, REVENUE, DATA, GOODWILL OR BUSINESS OPPORTUNITY, ARISING OUT OF OR RELATING TO THE SERVICE, WHETHER IN CONTRACT, TORT OR ANY OTHER THEORY, AND WHETHER OR NOT WE WERE ADVISED OF THE POSSIBILITY.

This includes liability for:

- a security incident, breach or data loss affecting your application or your users;
- a weakness the Service did not detect;
- action you took, or did not take, in reliance on a report or a suggested fix;
- a claim brought against you arising from a scan you submitted.

OUR TOTAL AGGREGATE LIABILITY ARISING OUT OF OR RELATING TO THE SERVICE WILL NOT EXCEED THE GREATER OF THE AMOUNT YOU PAID US IN THE TWELVE MONTHS BEFORE THE EVENT GIVING RISE TO THE CLAIM, OR ONE HUNDRED US DOLLARS ($100).

These limits apply even if a remedy is found to have failed of its essential purpose. Some jurisdictions do not allow certain limitations, so parts of this section may not apply to you.

12. Indemnification

You will defend, indemnify and hold harmless Cole Slay against any claim, demand, investigation, loss, liability, damage, cost and expense, including reasonable attorneys' fees, arising out of or relating to:

- a web address you submitted that you were not authorized to scan;
- your breach of these Terms, including Section 3 and Section 4;
- a claim by anyone else, including a site owner, a hosting provider or a regulator, concerning a scan you requested;
- your use of a report or of a suggested fix;
- your breach of any law or of anyone else's rights.

We will tell you promptly about a claim covered by this section. You may not settle a claim in a way that imposes an obligation on us without our written consent, and we may take part in the defense at our own cost.

13. Suspension and termination

You may stop using the Service at any time, and you may ask us to delete your account. Deletion is not instant: you have 15 days to change your mind, and after that we delete your data permanently, as described in the Privacy Policy. Cancelling a paid plan is covered by Section 7.

We may suspend or end your access, with or without notice, if we reasonably believe you have breached these Terms, if your use threatens the Service or a third party, if the law requires it, or if we discontinue the Service.

We may also change, suspend or discontinue the Service or any part of it at any time. The Service is early-stage, and we make no commitment to keep it running, to keep any particular feature, or to keep your data available indefinitely. Export anything you need to keep.

Sections 3, 8, 10, 11, 12, 15 and 16 survive termination.

14. Changes to these Terms

We may update these Terms. The effective date at the top shows when the current version took effect. If a change materially reduces your rights or increases your obligations, we will give notice before it takes effect, by posting on the Service and, where we hold your email address, by email.

Continuing to use the Service after a change takes effect means you accept the updated Terms. If you do not accept them, stop using the Service and delete your account.

15. Governing law and disputes

These Terms, and any dispute arising out of or relating to them or to the Service, are governed by the laws of the State of Nevada and the applicable federal law of the United States, without regard to conflict-of-laws rules. The United Nations Convention on Contracts for the International Sale of Goods does not apply.

Talk to us first. Before filing anything, please email coleslaysolutions@gmail.com describing the dispute and what you want. We will try to resolve it informally within 30 days of receiving your notice. Completing this step is a condition of filing a claim, except for a claim seeking an injunction or one involving intellectual property.

Where claims are brought. A dispute not resolved informally will be brought exclusively in the state or federal courts in Clark County, Nevada. You and we consent to the personal jurisdiction of those courts and waive any objection based on venue or inconvenient forum. Neither of us is prevented from bringing a qualifying claim in small claims court.

Time limit. Any claim must be brought within one year after it arises, so far as the law permits a contractual limitation period.

If you are a consumer resident outside the United States, this section does not affect mandatory consumer protections or court access in your country of residence.

16. General provisions

Entire agreement. These Terms, with the Privacy Policy and any terms shown at the point of purchase, are the entire agreement between you and us about the Service, replacing any earlier agreement or understanding.

Severability. If a provision is held unenforceable, it is modified to the least extent needed to make it enforceable, or severed if that is not possible, and the rest stays in force.

No waiver. A failure to enforce a provision is not a waiver of it.

Assignment. You may not assign these Terms without our written consent. We may assign them in connection with a merger, an acquisition or a sale of assets, with notice to you.

No third-party beneficiaries. These Terms create no rights for anyone other than you and us.

Force majeure. Neither of us is liable for a failure to perform caused by something outside our reasonable control, including a provider outage, a network failure, a natural disaster or a government action.

Notices. We may give you notice by email to the address on your account or by posting on the Service. You give us notice at coleslaysolutions@gmail.com.

Relationship. Nothing here creates a partnership, joint venture, employment or agency relationship.

17. Contact

Cole Slay

13565 Howling Coyote Ave, Las Vegas, Nevada

coleslaysolutions@gmail.com

Email us about these Terms, about a report, to give a dispute notice under Section 15, or to raise a concern about a scan made against a site you operate. If you are a site operator reporting a scan you did not authorize, please include the date, the time and the requesting address from your logs so that we can identify the scan.